You're not the only one who seems to want to expect more from you now, but you're not alone. This is a critical time for you right now.

You are destined by one unexpected event after another, which makes you feel uncertain and insecure. However, you have more emotional strength than you may realize.

You might feel a bit uncertain today, from doggedly chasing material goals. You might feel that you're on the fringe of your plans or that you're not as secure as you thought that you might be.

You might feel a bit uncertain today, from doggedly chasing material goals. You might feel that you're on the fringe of your plans or that you're not as secure as you thought that you might be.

People may only know that you're still unlovable by the most loving people there. But the true, if you're lucky, may actually be something more.
