Afghans Recruited for Syria War: Observatory

KABUL - The Syrian Observatory for Human Rights has confirmed presence of Afghan fighters in the Syria's ground battles between President Bashar al-Assad's soldiers and the rebel groups. The London-based observatory declared that Assad by the help of Iranian army had started months ago the recruitment of Afghan fighters. According to local media reports earlier in May, the right observatory said, "Iran's Revolutionary Guard Corps was recruiting Afghan refugees to fight in Syria and promised them $500 a month." Hundreds of Assad's Afghan recruits have been killed by the rebel groups with many others kidnapped, it added. According to Afghan fighters reported by foreign news channels, the Afghan refugees in Iran are being forced to fight in Syria.

Terrorists are Targeted without Differences: MoD

KABUL - Ministry of Defense (MoD) on Thursday has reiterated that the terrorists will be targeted in any corner of Afghanistan without differences. General Dawlat Wazir, a spokesman for the ministry of defense said that the government of Afghanistan will not let its territory be used against its neighbors or any other country. He said we have faith on peace and the government of Afghanistan is against terrorism and extremism. These remarks come after Pakistan based on Peshawar Attack expressed its concern over the joint border. But General Dawlat Waziri said there is no faction or group that is using the territory of Afghanistan against any other country. Leaving aside the blames, General Sher Mohammad Karimi, Afghan Army Chief and Pakistan's Army chief promised co-operation to root out terrorists from their countries. They met in Pakistan on 23 December 2014 in the presence of NATO chief in Afghanistan General John Campbell. They also promised that their subordinates will meet to discuss the plans to fight terrorists in the border areas. (KP)

Iran Hosting one Million Registered Afghan Refugees: Official

TEHRAN - The Interior Ministry official for foreign nationals and expatriates, Reza Mohseni, on Thursday said about one million registered Afghan refugees are presently living in Iran. He noted that Iran has been rendering remarkable services to foreign refugees in the past three decades. He said the second and third generations of Afghan refugees living in Iran are not familiar with their own country and many of them have not even visited Afghanistan.

The official said Iran has been conducting seminars, contests and other programs during the past three years to help young Afghans become familiar with the true aspects of their original country. This will help motivate young Afghans to return to their country of origin, the official added. (IRNA)
