Outlook Horoscope

Aries (Mar. 22-Apr.20)

You're not ready to relinquish your attachment to the excitement of an upcoming experience, but you still long for a more mellow existence today. You probably don't even see the irony of loving the adrenaline rush of the unknown while also wanting to get lost in your daydreams. Nevertheless, it's okay to take an easygoing approach to life now. There's no need to explain your motives.

Taurus (Apr.21-May 20)

You have your chores cut out for you now, but you might not understand how your present activities fit into your long-term goals. Perhaps people are making demands on you that distract you from something you wish you were doing. It's easy to believe that things will turn out in your favor, but it can be challenging to make plans when your vision of the future is so fuzzy.

Gemini (May 21-June 20)

You might think this is a good time to reinvent your life by setting new goals because you can imagine a variety of alternative paths today. Although your creativity may be running on overdrive, you probably possess more self-confidence now than clarity. Rather than making concrete plans, give yourself permission to entertain the wildest of dreams. Don't worry about the logistics.

Cancer (June 21-July 20)

You may be lost in a convincing dream to pursue a higher calling, but today's visions won't manifest unless you put your thoughts into action. People might be critical of your ideas because they assume you're being too idealistic, but their stern judgments of your impracticality aren't in your best interest. Continue developing your current plans.

Leo (July 21-Aug. 21)

It seems as if your personal life is shifting in a different direction as an opportunity for a new friendship or romance becomes less practical now. Thankfully, there's still a possibility of making it work, but it's not wise to assert yourself too strongly today. Curb your enthusiasm; instead of forcing an issue, just aim to keep your hopes alive for the time being by imagining your relationships just the way.

Virgo (Aug. 22-Sep 22)

Seeing your partner in a rational light is nearly impossible now because your subjectivity is spilling over while the Sun joins nebulous Neptune in your 7th House of Relationships. Your intentions carry a strong emotional charge that arises from your subconscious and you probably won't even realize what is motivating you today. However, paying close attention to your feelings enables you to gain a new perspective as long as you don't project your desires.

Libra (Sep 23-Oct. 22)

Complaining about all your work won't help your cause in the least today. Fortunately, you receive help from the Sun's alignment with imaginative Neptune in your 6th House of Routine as it casts a dreamy light on your current responsibilities. Rather than focusing on the present moment, share your vision of what life will be like once you finally finish your chores.

Scorpio (Oct.23-Nov.22)

Sharing sweet romantic fantasies with someone you adore isn't all that simple today, for there is more unfolding than meets the eye. The idealistic Sun-Neptune conjunction glamorizes your 5th House of Love and Creativity, indicating that you're in for pleasurable times. But you still must be cautious because you're operating with a dangerous amount of magnetism.

Sagittarius (Nov.23-Dec.20)

You're feeling quite confident about skipping the minor details today and attacking the big ideas without any additional planning. Although you are quick to grasp the general concepts, you might not have much patience for all the little things that must be in order before your plan for personal happiness or world domination can be successful. Don't try to micromanage the current situation.

Capricorn (Dec.21-Jan19)

You might need to respond to several minor emergencies that crop up today. Luckily, you can produce a positive effect on your immediate environment while smoothing out bumps in the road for your fellow travelers. However, something unexpected could reveal a whole new dimension to a current situation. Everything is more complicated than you know. Even if you don't possess all the facts.

Aquarius (Jan 20-Feb.18)

Your innate intelligence serves you well today, even if beautiful daydreams sidetrack you from your original agenda. But don't mindlessly pursue your fantasies now, for they will only delay the resolution of a complex problem. Instead of heading out in a new direction, improve on something you already started. To achieve the best results, be sure your current work is in full alignment with your core values.

Pisces (Feb.19-Mar.20)

Your dreams seem so close today that you feel as if you can reach out and touch them. Unfortunately, it's challenging to bring your visions all the way down to earth. Although your preoccupation with your thought process isn't obvious to others now, you are spinning wheels in your mind and working overtime analyzing illogical scenarios. Ironically, the complexity of your current situation will resolve on its own once you stop struggling.
