Outlook Horoscope

Aries (Mar. 22-Apr.20) You can visualize a straight path in front of vou when it comes to reaching your goals today. However, forks in the road begin to appear as the day progresses until there are so many choices you don't know which direction to turn. Somewhere along the line you'll need to let go of your original itinerary. the multitude of distractions and don't really care where you end up as long as you're not bored along the way.

Taurus (Apr.21-May 20)

You are a bit disoriented today as your decisiveness fades and is replaced with a question mark. It's as if every road you travel suddenly comes to an end in the middle of nowhere. Although this uncertainty stimulates the flow of adrenaline, you nostalgically long for familiar ground. Instead of trying to firm up reality, accept the fact that there are times when you simply cannot see around the bend.

Gemini (May 21-June 20)

Virgo (Aug. 22-Sep 22)

There are conflicting paths to follow now as your personal needs lead you one way and other people's expectations pull another. Normally, you would analyze the current situation until you were able to make a choice as to which direction makes the most sense. However, you're quite content to pursue a dual track today without feeling any conflict at all. Relish the luxury of operating in two realities simultaneously until you are stretched too thin.

Libra (Sep 23-Oct. 22)

You are coming to the end of an emotional cycle and are eagerly anticipating moving into new territory now. However, there may be plenty of work to finish before you are freed from the past. In the meantime, savor the fleeting glimpses of your destiny as it appears in bits and pieces. There's not much time left to wrap up loose ends, so get busy while you still have the chance.

Scorpio (Oct.23-Nov.22)

The gift of gab is yours today, allowing you to talk about your feelings in ways that are normally uncomfortable. Instead of being consumed by your passions now, you can stand back far enough to gain a wider perspective. Your current emotional detachment is a refreshing change of pace for you and your immediate circle of friends and family.

Sagittarius (Nov.23-Dec.20)

Although you feel particularly nurturing toward friends and relatives today, your actions might not support your desires. In fact, you could come across as cool and detached rather than warm and fuzzy. However, your affection isn't necessarily expressed by sheltering others from the world. Instead, you prefer to encourage people to engage the potential of life as an exhilarating adventure.

Capricorn (Dec.21-Jan19)

You are the most confident about your future when you have a concrete plan in hand. You like to work with well-established priorities and an ambitious strategy to reach your goals.

However, previous commitments limit your choices now and you're ready to do something about it in order to free yourself from the restraints. Nevertheless, an impulsive reaction to frustration won't further your cause.

Aquarius (Jan 20-Feb.18)

You are enthusiastic about your ability to alter vour life's direction, even if there's not much you can do about it today. It may feel as if your mind is free but your hands are tied. Instead of fighting against the limitations imposed by your current schedule, accept whatever challenges you encounter in stride. Use this time to visualize the changes around the next corner.

Pisces (Feb.19-Mar.20)

Relationship dynamics can be a conundrum today because you long for security while simultaneously needing your independence. Happily, it's possible to have the best of both worlds. But you might be better off following the course of least resistance until there's a solid foundation in place. Starting a conversation from an emotionally neutral position minimizes the likelihood of conflict.
