Ghani Urges Afghans to Put Aside Past Differences

KABUL - President Ashraf Ghani on Saturday urged the Afghans to put aside their past differences and work for the country's prosperity under the constitution.

Speaking at a gathering marking the 23rd anniversary of the Mujahideen's victory over the former Soviet Union forces, the president pledged drastic administrative reforms to improve living condition of the countrymen in a short period of time.

He said the government had adopted policies in cooperation with the international community to integrate Asia and Middle East economies through Afghanistan.

The president said the cabinet would work on a 100-day plan to ensure that people felt positive change as a result of government policies.

He said global terrorist networks were out destabilise Afghanistan and reached their targets by spreading fear and threatening people.

Ghani said terrorists earned bad name to Islam by staging attacks on public gatherings that resulted in the killing of innocent people. The world, he said, fortunately understood that terrorists had no links with Islam. He said the ...(More on P4)...(1)
