Construction of Casa-1000 to Start within Two Months: DABS

Officials from the Da Afghanistan Breshna Sherkat (DABS) said this week that construction of the CASA1000- power project will start in Afghanistan within the next two months.

KABUL - DABS chairman Amanullah Ghalib said a meeting was held in New Delhi recently on technical feasibility studies of the CASA-1000 power project and that the reviews and assessments have been completed. Ghalib said they will now move onto the next phase and construction work will soon start on the project. Ghalib said the project will be managed by an Indian company in cooperation with DABS and the Ministry of Energy and Water. "The feasibility studies have all been completed. The companies will start their practical work within the next month or two months. Those areas that are not vulnerable (regarding security), that are easily accessible and that do have harsh winter (weather conditions), are our priority and the work will first ...(More on P4)...(7)

Tucker Carlson: Time for Trump to End Afghanistan War, Keep Campaign Promise

TUCKER CARLSON, FOX NEWS HOST - American forces are still fighting in Afghanistan, it's been 17 years since we first sent troops there to topple the Taliban government. We still have thousands of Americans in the country. So far this year, eight of them have been killed. President Trump hates this. We happened to know, he has often complained to people around him about the quagmire that Afghanistan has become. You remember that when he ran for President, one of Trump's central promises was to keep America out of pointless foreign wars like this one.

Washington despised him for saying that because it implicated them and their failures, but voters appreciated hearing it. And yet somehow the war in Afghanistan has continued to this day fruitlessly.

That's thanks almost entirely to bullying from our thoroughly discredited foreign policy establishment. They are happy to keep things the way they are. 17 years later though we as a country ...(More on P4)...(6)

Wolesi Jirga to Investigate Kandahar Attack

KABUL - Wolesi Jirga or lower house of the parliament has appointed a delegation for investigation of October 19 attack in southern Kandahar province, saying investigations done so far were unsatisfactory. Kandahar officials had said that provincial police chief, Gen. Abdul Raziq, intelligence chief, Gen. Abdul Momin and a photo journalist of Milli Television channel were killed in an insider attack after the officials' meeting with NATO and US forces top commander in Afghanistan Gen. Scott Miller ended. Zalmay Wesa, Kandahar governor, ...(More on P4)...(8)

AGO Receives 37 Election Criminal Cases

KABUL - The Attorney General Office (AGO) has received 37 criminal cases relating to elections involving 134 persons, an official said on Tuesday.

The Wolesi Jirga elections were held on October 20 and 21 in 32 provinces of the country. The polls were held after a week delay in Kandahar province and would be conducted in Ghazni province with the presidential election next year.

According to the Independent Electoral Complaints Commission (IECC), around 11,000 complaints have been registered after the elections about alleged rigging and fraud.

AGO spokesman Jamshir Rasouli told reporters here that 37 criminal cases related to elections had been registered so far, in which 137 people had been accused. He said most of the cases were from Kabul, Paktia, Badakhshan, Baghlan, Kapisa, Kunar and Nangarhar provinces. He added Kandahar province was not included in the cases. ...(More on P4)...(9)
