Afghanistan, Pakistan Decide to Boost Trade with Fresh Agreement

ISLAMABAD - In a major development, Islamabad and Kabul have decided to re-negotiate the Afghanistan-Pakistan Transit Trade Agreement (APTTA) after a lapse of five years as the APTTA was previously signed between both sides in Washington in October 2010.

On the demand of Kabul, both sides decided that the fresh negotiation on transit agreement would be held during the upcoming meeting of Afghanistan Pakistan Transit Trade

Coordination Authority (APITCA) scheduled to be held in Kabul in March 2016.

However, both the countries remained stuck up to their traditional stance for providing access to each other up to South Asia and Central Asia as Islamabad refused to allow access through the Wagah border up to India while Kabul seemed reluctant to provide access to the Central Asian Republics (CARs) via Afghanistan. According to the minutes...(More on P4)...(5)
